KING EDWARD VII DIED ON MAY 6

London.—King Edward VII., who returned to England from a vacation a few days ago in the best of health, died at 11:45 p.m., on May 6, in the presence of his family, after an illness of less than a week, which was serious hardly more than three days.

The Prince of Wales succeeded to the crown, immediately, according to the laws of the kingdom, without official ceremony. His first official act was to despatch to the Lord Mayor the announcement of his father's death, in pursuance of custom.

The physicians soon afterwards issued their official bulletin.

Pneumonia, following bronchitis, is believed to have been the cause of death, but the doctors thus far have refused to make a statement. Some of the King's friends are convinced that worry over the critical political situation, which confronted him, with sleepless nights, aggravated, if it did not cause, the fatal illness. Besides the nearest relatives in England, the Duke of Fife and the Archbishop of Canterbury were in the death chamber.

The intelligence that the end of King Edward's reign had come was not a surprise at the last. The people had been expecting it at any hour after the issue of the bulletin, which was posted at Buckingham Palace shortly before his death, and was flashed throughout the kingdom.

The capital received it without excitement, but sadly, for the King with his own people was unquestionably one of the most popular rulers in the world. They regarded him as one of the strongest forces making for the stability of the peace of the empire.

Within a few minutes after the death of the King the home office was telegraphing the intelligence to the heads of other governments and the British diplomats and colonial officials throughout the world.

One of the last utterances attributed to King Edward was: "Well, it's all over, but I think I have done my duty." He seemed then to have reached to a full realization that his end was fast approaching.

The Queen and others of the royal family and four doctors had been constantly in the sick room throughout the day. Several hours before his death, the King was in a comatose condition, but he rallied slightly between nine and ten o'clock, and then appeared to have recognized his family. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness, which ended in his passing.

The body lies in the King's chamber in the northwest wing of Buckingham Palace, which is brilliantly lighted, while the rest of the great gloomy building, with the exception of Lord Knollys' office, is entirely darkened. It was nearly half an hour after the King breathed his last, when Lord Knollys walked into the office and said to the waiting reporters: "Gentlemen, his Majesty is dead."

The people outside the palace only learned the news when bearers appeared with papers. In the meantime, the Prince and Princess of Wales had taken leave of the other members of the royal family at the main entrance soon after midnight. They drove direct to Marlborough House. Princess Victoria, who is her mother's constant companion, remained with the Queen. The others of the family followed the Prince and Princess of Wales.

The transition from winter's cold to summer's heat frequently puts a strain upon the system that produces internal complications, always painful and often serious. A common form of disorder is dysentery, to which many are prone in the spring and summer. The very best medicine to use in subduing this painful ailment is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It is a standard remedy, sold everywhere.

"Ever see her? Well, you've something to live for, gentlemen. I've seen her but three times, and I don't seem able to shake off the spell. You've never seen such hair. Gad, it's as near like the kind that Heener painted as anything human could be, except that it's more like old gold, if you can understand what I mean by that. Not bronze, mind you, nor the raw red, but—oh, well, I'm not a novelist, so I can't halfway describe it. She's rather tall—not too tall, mind you—five feet five, I'd say—whatever that is in the metric system. Slender and well dressed—oh, that's the strangest thing of all! Well dressed! Think of a princess being well dressed! I'd say she's twenty-two or twenty-three years of age—not a minute older. I think her eyes are a very dark gray, almost blue. Her skin is like a—a—oh, let me see! What is there that's as pure and soft as her skin? Something warm, and pink, and white, d'ye see? Well, never mind. And her smile! And her frown! You know, I've seen both of 'em, and one's as attractive as the other. She's a real princess, gentlemen, and the prettiest woman I've ever laid my eyes upon. And to think of her as the wife of that blithering little ass, that nincompoop of a Karl Brabetz! She loathes him, I'm sure—I know she does. And she's got to marry him! That's what she gets for being a grand duke's daughter. Brabetz is the heir apparent to some duchy or other over there and is supposed to be the catch of the season. You've heard of him. He was in Paris this season and cut quite a figure—a prince with real money in his purse, you know. I wonder why it is that our American girls can't marry the princes who have money instead of those who have none. Not that I wish any of our girls such bad luck as Brabetz! I'll stake my head he'll never forget me!" Chase concluded with a sharp, reflective laugh in which his hearers joined, for the escapade which inspired it was being stylishly discussed in every embassy in Europe.

But to return. The advent of the princess put fresh life into the slow-eating city and court circles. Charming people whom Chase had never seen before seemed to spring into existence suddenly; the streets took on a new air; the bands played with a keener zest, and the army prinked itself into a most amazingly presentable shape. Chase could hardly believe his success. He lifted up his chin, threw out his chest, banished the look of discontent from his face and announced to himself that Thorberg was not such a bad place after all.

For days he swung blithely through the streets, the hangdog look gone from his eyes, always hoping for another glimpse of the fair sorceress who had worked the great transformation. It was two weeks before he saw her the second time. He was more enchanted by her face than before, especially as he came to realize the astonishing fact that she was kind enough to glance in his direction from time to time.

It was during the weekly concert in the Kursaal late one night. She came in with a party, among whom he recognized several of the leading personages at court.

Chase sat at a table with the French attaché just below the box occupied by the princess and her party. In spite of the fact that he was a gentleman born and bred he could not conquer countless impulses to look at the flower face of the royal auditor.

Gradually the program led up to the feature of the evening, the rendition of a great work under the direction of a famous leader, a special guest of the music loving duke.

Chase arose and cheered with the assemblage when the distinguished director made his appearance. Then he proceeded to forget the man and his genius—in fact, everything save the rapt listener above him. She was leaning forward on the rail of the box, her chin in her hand, her eyes looking steadily ahead, enthralled by the music. Suddenly she turned and looked squarely into his eyes, as if impelled by the magnetism they unconsciously employed. A little flush mounted to her brow as she quickly resumed her former attitude. Chase cursed himself for a brainless lout.

The number came to an end, and the crowd arose to cheer the bowing, smiling director. Chase cheered and shouted "Bravo!" too, because she was applauding as eagerly as the others. She called the flushed, bowing director to her box and publicly thanked him for the pleasure he had given. Chase saw him kiss her hand as he murmured his gratitude. For the first time in his life he coveted the occupation of an orchestra leader.

The director was a frail, rather good looking young man, with piercing black eyes that seemed too bold in their scrutiny of the young lady's face. Chase began to hate him. He was unusually thankful when he passed on to the box in which the duke sat.

The third and last time he saw the Princess Geneva before his sudden, spectacular departure from the grand duchy was at the duke's reception to the nobility of Rapp-Thorberg and to the representatives of such nations of the world as felt the necessity of having a man there in an official capacity.

CHAPTER IV. THE INDISCREET MR. CHASE.

THERE was not a handsomer, more striking figure in the palace gardens on the night of the reception than Hollingsworth Chase nor one whose poise proved that he knew the world quite as well as it is possible for any one man to know it. His was a unique figure also, for he was easily distinguishable as the only American in the brilliant assemblage.

He was presented to the princess late in the evening, together with Baggs of the British office. His pride and confidence received a severe shock. She glanced at him with unaffected welcome, but with the air of one who was looking upon his face for the first time.

He could not again approach within speaking distance of the princess, nor did he presume to make the effort.

Chase knew his proper place. She was the gayest, the most vivacious being in the whole assemblage. She had but to stretch out her hand or project her smile and every man in touch with the spell was ready to drop at her feet. At last she led her court off toward the pavilion under which the royal orchestra was playing. As if it were a signal, every one turned his steps in that direction. Chase and the Englishman had been conversing diligently with an ancient countess and her two attractive daughters near the fountain.

Again the dapper director came forward to lead the musicians, and again he was most enthusiastically received. This time Chase was not where he could watch the princess. He found, therefore, that he could devote his attention to the music and the popular conductor. He was amazed to find that the fellow seemed to be inspired. He was also surprised to find himself carried away by the fervor of the moment.

With the final crash of the orchestra he found himself shouting again with the others. Oddly, this time he was as mad as they. A score or more of surprised, disapproving eyes were turned upon him when he yelled "Encore!"

"There will be no encore," admonished the fair girl at his side kindly. "It is not New York," she added, with a sly smile.

Ten minutes later Chase and the Englishman were lighting their cigars in an obscure corner of the gardens.

"Extraordinarily beautiful," Chase murmured reflectively as he seated himself upon the stone railing along the drive.

"Yes, they say he really wrote it himself," drawled Baggs, puffing away. "I'm not talking about the music," corrected Chase sharply.

"Oh!" murmured Baggs apologetically. "The night?"

"No; the princess, Baggs. Haven't you noticed her?" with intense sarcasm in his tone.

"Of course I have, old chap —

Jove, do you know she is good looking positively rippling."

They lately observed the approach of one couple, attracted no doubt by the disparity in the height of the two shadows. The man was at least half a head shorter than his companion, but his ardor seemed a thousandfold more vast. Chase was amused by the apparent intensity of the small officer's devotion, especially as it was met with a coldness that would have chilled the fervor of a man much larger and therefore more timid. It was impossible to see the faces of the couple until they passed through a moonlit streak in the walk quite close at hand.

Chase started and grasped his companion's arm. One was the Princess Geneva and—was it possible? Yes, the nimble conductor—the sensation of the hour, the musical lion! Moreover, to Chase's cold horror, the "little freak" was actually making violent love to the divinity of Rapp-Thorberg!

The princess had not seen the two men, nor had the fervent conductor, whose impassioned French was easily distinguishable by the unwilling listeners. The sharp, indignant "No" of the princess, oft repeated, did much to relieve the pain in the heart of her American admirer. Finally, with an unmistakable cry of anger, she halted not ten feet from where Chase sat, as though he had become a part of the stone rail.

"I have asked you not to touch me, sir! Is not that enough? If you persist I shall be compelled to appeal to my father again. The whole situation is loathsome to me. Are you blind? Can you not see that I despise you? I will not endure it a day longer. You promised to respect my wishes."

"How can I respect a promise which condemns me to purgatory every time I see you?" he cried passionately. "I adore you. You are the queen of my life, the holder of my soul. Geneva, Geneva, I love you! My soul for one tender word, for one soft caress! Ah, do not be so cruel! I will be your slave!"

"Enough! Stop, I say! If you dare to touch me!" she cried, drawing away from her tormentor, her voice trembling with anger. The little conductor's manner changed on the instant. He gave a snarl of rage.

"By heaven, I'll make you pay for this some day! You shall learn what a man can do with a woman such as you are! You!"

STANLEY AS A FIGHTER.

His Revenge on the Africans For Attacking His Forces.

In the following language Sir Henry M. Stanley describes an attack of natives upon his party during one of his African expeditions: "The Leviathan bears down on us with racing speed, its consorts on either flank spouting the water into foam and shooting up jets with their sharp prows. A thrilling chant from 2,000 throats rises louder and louder on our hearing. Presently the poised spears are launched, and a second later my rifles respond with a ripping, crackling explosion, and the dark bodies of the canoes and paddlers rush past us.

"For a short time the savages are paralyzed, but they soon recover. They find there is death in those flaming tubes in the hands of the strangers, and with possibly greater energy than they advanced they retreat, the pursued becoming the pursuers in hot chase. My blood is up. It is a murderous world, and I have begun to hate the sly, voracious shoals who inhabit it.

"I pursue them upstream, up to their villages. I skirmish in their streets, drive them pell-mell into the woods beyond and level their ivory temples. With frantic haste I fire their huts and end the scene by towing their canoes into midstream and setting them adrift."

RAVENOUS EATERS.

Gluttony of Soliman and the Appetite of Louis XIV.

Touching the matter of eating, the stories told by the old chroniclers and historians of the abnormal appetites of certain Roman and oriental men of note fairly stagger belief.

Gibbon tells of Soliman, a caliph in the eighth century, who died of acute indigestion in his camp near Chalcis, in Syria, just as he was about to lead an army of Arabs against Constantinople. He had emptied two baskets of eggs and figs, which he swallowed alternately, and the repast was finished with marrow and sugar. In a pilgrimage to Mecca the same caliph had eaten with impunity at a single meal seventy pomegranates, a kid, six fowls and a huge quantity of the grapes of Tayef.

Such a statement would defy belief were not others of a similar character well avouched. Louis XIV. could hardly boast of an appetite as ravenous as Soliman's, but he would eat at a sitting four platefuls of different soups, a whole pheasant, a partridge, a plateful of salad, mutton hashed with garlic, two good sized slices of ham, a dish of pastry and finish this ample repast with fruit and sweetmeats.—London Saturday Review.

No Chance In History.
Mazzini said that he did not believe that chance existed in history. "A cause must necessarily underlie every event, although for the moment it may appear as the result of apparently accidental circumstances. As Alexander, a Caesar, a Napoleon, are not the results of accident, but the inevitable product of the time and nation from which they spring. It was not Caesar who destroyed the Roman republic. The republic was dead before Caesar came. Sulla, Marius, Catiline, preceded and foreshadowed Caesar, but he, gifted with keener insight and greater genius, snatched the power from them and concentrated it in his own hands. For there was no doubt that he was fitter to rule than all the others put together. At the same time, supposing he had appeared 150 years earlier, he would not have succeeded in destroying the republic. When he came the life had already gone out of it, and even Caesar's death could not restore that."

Nicely Graded.

It is still a tradition that the people of Manchester, England, should gibe at Liverpool with the proverb, "A Manchester man, a Liverpool gentleman;" but, it is said, classification is not so strongly marked in Lancashire as in the old days. When stagecoaches were running a guard was once asked, "Who has tha' gotten inside, Billy?" Billy consulted his list and replied, "A gentleman fra Liverpool, a mon fra Manchester, a chap fra Oldham and a fellow fra Wigan."

Not Her.

The Doctor—Mrs. Murphy, you must be at your husband's side constantly, as you will need to band him something every little while.

Mrs. Murphy—Niver, doctor! Fur be it from me to hit a man whin he's down.—Puck.

Silly Ideas.

Miss Elder—The idea of his pretending that my hair was gray!

Miss Peppery—Ridiculous!

Miss Elder—Wasn't it, though?

Miss Pepper—Yes, just as if you'd buy gray hair!—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Agony of PILES

ONLY those who suffer from piles know the misery it brings! It robs life of its pleasure, steals the brightness from existence, and substitutes days of dull pain and moments of acute agony. Most so called "remedies" give ease only for a time, and then—back comes the trouble and pain and misery! Zam-Buk cures Piles! And cures permanently. Proof of this lies all around you. Women and men in all stations of life have proved it—possibly some of your friends! Let it cure you!

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, of 258, Hochelaga St., Hochelaga, Montreal, says:—"I was a sufferer for years from blind, itching and protruding piles. The agony I suffered no one knows. Remedy after remedy proved useless. Day followed day and there was no relief for me—pain, loss of strength, dulness, misery, this was my experience until Zam-Buk was introduced. I know now that there is nothing on this earth like it! It cured me of piles, and once cured, I have had no return of the evil. I would like all women who suffer as I did to know that Zam-Buk will cure them!

Besides being a specific for piles Zam-Buk cures eczema, blood-poisoning, cracked hands, ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises, scalp sores, ringworm, bad leg, frost bite, cold sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto for price.

"ORANGE LILY SAVED MY LIFE"

These words or expressions having the same meaning are contained in hundreds of the letters I have received during the past year. Many were from women who had suffered agonies from falling of womb; others from women who had escaped dangerous surgical operations as the tumors and ulcers had been removed by the action of Orange Lily; and others who had suffered from suppressed menstruation, leucorrhœa, painful periods, etc. For all these and the other troubles known in general as Women's Disorders, Orange Lily furnishes a positive scientific, never-failing cure. It is operation is certain and beneficial applied direct to the suffering organs, and its effect is sensible and absolutely free. Enclose 3 stamps, MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAM, Windsor, Ont.

The Canadian Collier's discusses heading, "A mud pie in Alberta."

It says: 'The Royal Commission on the Alberta and Great Water-way's deal discovers nothing, not because there is nothing to discover, but because there is nothing discoverable. The rake-off of half a million dollars—perhaps more—is as far from being explained as ever. Footprints, turned-over leaves (in stock sheets) and clues that point nowhere, exists in baffling quantities, but letters, telegrams, and witnesses that really count have strangely disappeared. In these don't-write-black and white, not on asbestos paper in padlocked files, can be expected to survive. President

Clark, Director Minty, Counsel
Robson, fade away and from a safe distance send word they will say nothing. Suspects on the spot hide their knowing heads in the sand and let public sentiment whack away at their less vulnerable parts.
Even the railway melts into a mist that looks like the Canada West Construction company and leaves not a wrack behind. The anger of honest men is aroused at all this scuttling and skulking. Even the professional boulder has nothing but disgust for the men who were not smart enough to trump up a plausible defence when they had a questionable thing to "put over."
The Bible does not say how long

Could Hardly Walk For Pains in Back

Kidneys Were in Bad Shape But Cure Was Effect and All Credit Given to DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS.

So many suffer from lame, sore, aching back and do not realize the seriousness of their condition because they do not know that this is an unmistakable symptom of diseased kidneys.

When it is so easy to get relief and cure by using Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills you would wonder why anyone should take such a terrible risk.

You can be sure of relief by using this medicine because of its direct and combined action on both liver and kidneys. Ordinary medicines often fail because they do not awaken the action of the liver and bowels, and do not give the kidneys any chance to get well.

Mr. Fred Gummer, Lillies, Leeds Co., Ont., writes: "I can honestly say that Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills are a wonderful medicine. For six weeks last fall I could hardly walk for pains in the back resulting from a bad case of kidney disease. I tried several remedies but got no better.

"Seeing Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills advertised I decided to try them. By the time I had used three boxes, I felt better and kept on until I used five boxes when I felt as well as I ever did. So satisfactory was this medicine that it is a pleasure to tell others about it."

Almost anybody can tell you about cures brought about by Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. Their action is so direct and certain that you will not be using them long without feeling the benefit.

Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills cure kidney disease, biliousness, indigestion and constipation. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmaston, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

The Dean summoned the delinquent, lectured him on his shortcomings, and threatened him with dismissal unless conditions were bettered.

After a man makes good, a lot of envious people hate him.

A Power of Its Own—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil has a subtle power of its own that other oils cannot pretend to, though there are many pretenders. All who have used it know this and keep it by them as the most valuable liniment available. Its uses are innumerable and for many years it has been prized as the leading liniment for man and beast.

Beauty is only skin deep, but at that it is no more shallow than some other qualities.

NERVOUS DISEASES IN THE SPRING

Can Only be Removed by Toning Up the Blood and Strengthening the Nerves.

Nervous diseases become more common and more serious in the spring than at any other time of the year. This is the opinion of the best medical authorities after long observation. Vital changes in the system after long winter months may cause much more than "spring weakness," and the familiar weariness and aches. Official records prove that in April and May neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy and various forms of nervous disturbances are at their worst, especially among those who have not reached middle age.

The antiquated custom of taking purgatives in the spring is useless, for the system really needs strengthening—purgatives make you weaker. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a special action on the blood and nerves, for they give strength and have cured not only many forms of nervous disorders, but also other spring troubles such as headaches, weakness in the limbs, loss of appetite, trembling of the hands, melancholy and mental and bodily weariness as well as unsightly pimples and skin troubles.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure these nervous disorders and spring ailments because they actually make new, rich, red blood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The best thing to keep an argument going indefinitely is ignorance of the subject on both sides.

HAIR GROWTH AND BEAUTY

To prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove dandruff, allay itching and irritation and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap and occasional dressings with Cuticura Ointment are usually effective when all else fails. Special and full directions accompany each package of Cuticura, or will be sent free on application to the Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation, Boston, U.S.A. In the treatment of eczemas, rashes, itchings and chafings, for sanative, antiseptic cleansing of ulcerated and inflamed mucous surfaces and for all purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery, these pure, sweet and gentle emollients are absolutely indispensable.

Something Worth Painting

Robert Henri, the painter, discussed at a dinner the popular taste in art. "The popular taste in art," he said, "is apt to be peculiar."

"Once in Vermont I was at work upon a picturesque bit of woodland—a lane, a tree, a charming effect of sunlight, and shadow—when a hand fell heavily on my shoulder, and the voice of a young farmer said:

"What are ye paintin' that little bit o' road fur? Come along with me, mister, an' I'll show ye somethin' worth paintin'—three miles o' road, all just repaired."—Washington Star.

A Skilful Retreat

Things hadn't turned out too well with their love affair. The fatal word had just been spoken, and he was rejected. The rejected suitor stood respectfully before her, listening to her elaborate explanations of her decision. Below, the smooth waters of Oriental bay rested in awesome wonder. "I trust I have made myself sufficiently plain," she said. "Well, I would scarcely go so far," he answered, as his courage gradually returned. "It's but fair to give nature the credit for that," he added as he retired in good order.

A Purely Vegetable Pill—The chief ingredients of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are mandrake and dandelion, sedative and purgative, but perfectly harmless in their action. They cleanse and purify and have a most healthful effect upon the secretions of the digestive organs. The dyspeptic and all who suffer from liver and kidney ailments will find in these pills the most effective medicine in concentrated form that has yet been offered to the suffering.

EVERY DAY BRINGS A FRESH PROOF

THAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ARE A BOON TO SUFFERING
WOMEN

Mrs. Rousseau tells how they cured her after three years of almost ceaseless pain.

Hintonburg, Ont. (Special).—Every day furnishes fresh proof that the women of Canada can be cured of ailments which have hitherto seemed to be a part of the inheritance of the sex by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. And this place has a living proof in the person of Mrs. William Rousseau, of 37 Merton Street.

"For over three years," Mrs. Rousseau states, "I was very ill. My troubles were painful. I suffered very much with my back. My head ached almost continuously and I scarcely knew what it was to be free from pain. I was very weak and run down. Occasionally my hands would swell up, and this, too, gave me a great deal of annoyance and discomfort. I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and very soon commenced to improve. Three boxes cured me completely."

Nine-tenths of suffering women's troubles start from diseased kidneys. The natural way to cure them is to take away the cause, that is, to cure the kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure diseased kidneys.

The Rotundity

"Think there is a fourth dimension?"

Value of Perspiration
The value of perspiration is not understood by everybody, or all would want a certain amount to take out acids and impurities that might otherwise remain in the blood to be worked off more slowly in other ways. A young couple out in Osborne county became the proud parents of a little girl the other day. They wanted to weigh the youngster as soon as she was dressed, but had no scales. #### GEORGE V SUCCEEDS

Buckingham Palace, on June 3, 1865, and was the second son of the late King Edward VII., who, at that period, was Prince of Wales. He began his career as a cadet of the Royal Navy on board the training ship Britannia, when 12 years of age. In 1877 he and his brother, the late Duke of Clarence, then heir-presumptive to the throne, started upon a two years' cruise around the world aboard the Bacchante. Shortly after the Bacchante's return home Prince George, as our new monarch was then designated, was gazetted midshipman to the Coda, on the North American station. This was followed by his promotion to the rank of Lieutenant in 1885, and to that of commander in 1891. The revival of the old royal title of "Duke of York," borne by so many princes distinguished in England's history, in Prince George's favor, and from 1891, consequently, we must begin to speak of him as "the Duke of York." He was the twelfth holder of this title since its creation in the reign of Edward III., about 1350. At the same time his elder brother, the heir presumptive, was created Duke of Clarence.

The next year, 1892, the kingdom and empire were thrown into mourning by the untimely death of the Duke of Clarence. This sad event shifted the Duke of York into the position of heir-presumptive to the English throne. This was soon followed in 1892 by his marriage to his, second cousin, Princess Victoria Mary, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Teck, which was celebrated with all befitting and appropriate pomp and ceremony.

The death of Queen Victoria on January 22, 1901, raised the then Prince of Wales to the throne as Edward VII., and thereby transferred the position of heir-apparent to the Duke of York. The new reign was signalized at its opening by a tour made by the Duke of York around the colonies and overseas possessions of Britain on board the Ophir, which event will be still in the memory of many of our Canadian readers. King Edward VII. marked the home-coming of the Duke of York from this voyage aboard the Ophir by creating him Prince of Wales, the title borne for the past six hundred years by "the Eldest Son of England."

In 1905 the Prince of Wales left England in company with his consort for an extensive tour through India, which was fraught with the most beneficial results from a political point of view, as a means of introducing the native chiefs and princes of Hindostan to their future overlord sovereign, the future Emperor of India.

In celebration of his safe return from the tour around the world he was entertained by the London corporation at the Guild hall on December 5, 1901, on which occasion he delivered his well known advice to England "to wake up." In the fall of 1905 he went to India, and when he returned there was another celebration. On this occasion he said that the task of governing India would be made easier if we, on our part, infuse into it a wider element of sympathy. His Indian trip was generally regarded as not a success from a political viewpoint. In 1908 he visited Canada to attend the celebration at Quebec and Ottawa.

The prince is less democratic than his father, and does not have such an ardent love for sports. It is predicted, therefore, that after his accession to the throne, the court galettes, which were always a feature during Edward's reign, will be less marked.

His six children are Edward Albert, Albert Frederick, Victoria Alexandra, Henry William and John Charles, and one daughter.
